

Textures and Meanings

Thirty Years of Judaic Studies at University of Massachusetts Amherst

Essays edited by Leonard H. Ehrlich, Shmuel Bolozky, Robert A. Rothstein, Murray Schwartz, Jay R. Berkovitz, James E. Young

Contents

Leonard H. Ehrlich, “By Way of Introduction: Thirty Years of Judaic Studies – A Personal Memoir”	iv
Robert A. Rothstein, “Jules Piccus – A Personal Remembrance of one of the Founding Fathers of Judaic Studies”	xi
Section A: Contexts of Modernity	1
Jay R. Berkovitz, “Ritual and Modernity: Rethinking Jewish Emancipation”	4
Howard Tzvi Adelman, “Germany as Museum of Jewish History and a Laboratory for Jewish-Christian Relations”	27
Leonard H. Ehrlich, “Judaism within Modernity: Challenge to Survival”	45
Charles D. Isbell, “Modern Judaism and the Haredim: Historical Issues in the Current Debate”	72
Section B: Red Thread in the Warp of History: Anti-Semitism	103
Julius Lester, “Racism, Anti-Semitism and the Concept of Evil”	106
Fredrick Busi, “Faith and Race: Gougenot des Mousseaux and the Development of Anti-Semitism in France”	120
Robert Schwartzwald, “Father Marie-Alain Couturier, O.P. and the Refutation of Anti-Semitism in Vichy France”	141
Susan E. Shapiro, “The Uncanny Jew: A brief History of an Image”	158
Section C: Literary Hues and Textures	178
Jules Piccus, “Corrections, Suppressions, and Changes in Montalvo’s Amadís , Book I”	180
Robert A. Rothstein, “The Sad Lot of Women in Ukrainian and Yiddish Folksongs”	213
Jules Chametzky, “Jewish Humor”	228
Sigrid Bauschinger, “Else Lasker-Schüler on the Lost Bridge Between Jews and Christians”	238
Section D: Texts and Interpretation	252
Carl S. Ehrlich, “‘Make yourself no graven image’: The Second Commandment and Judaism”	255
Ruth Birnbaum, “Grappling with Aristotelianism in Medieval Jewish Philosophy”	273
Judith Romney Wegner, “You can get there from here!: Exegetical Excursions from Judaism to Islam”	285
Judith R. Baskin, “Rereading the Sources: New Visions of Women in Medieval Ashkenaz”	298
Philip Cohen, “The Problem of Paganism and its Solution in the Theology of David Einhorn”	311

Section E: Textures of Language	321
Chaim Cohen, “The Saga of a Unique Verb in Biblical Hebrew and Ugaritic: hšthwb ‘to bow down’ – Usage and Etymology”	323
Shmuel Bolozky, “Surface Geminates (dageš forte) in Israeli Hebrew”	343
Mohammed Jiyad, “The Arabic Gemini for Advanced Reading”	350
Section F: Web of Community and Memory	363
Aviva Ben-Ur, “The Exceptional and the Mundane: A Biographical Portrait of Rebecca (Machado) Phillips (1746-1831)”	366
Emanuel Rubin, “The Music of David Nowakowski (1840-1921): A New Voice from Old Odessa”	399
Steven Bowman, “The Jews of Greece”	419
James Young, “When a Day Remembers: A Performative History of Yom ha- Shoah”	436
Joel Martin Halpern, “Judaic Studies and Me”	453